The History of Ritsumeikan

The Founding Spirit and Educational Philosophy of Ritsumeikan

The history of Ritsumeikan dates back to 1869 when Prince Kinmochi Saionji, an eminent international statesman of modern Japan, founded "Ritsumeikan" as a private academy on the site of the Kyoto Imperial Palace. In 1900, Kojuro Nakagawa, former secretary of Prince Saionji, established Kyoto Hosei School (Kyoto School of Law and Politics), an evening law school that was open to working people. This school formally adopted the name Ritsumeikan in 1913 and was finally given the status of a university in 1922.

The school spirit of liberalism and internationalism advocated by Prince Saionji was combined with the ideals of academic freedom and vivacity pursued by Kojuro Nakagawa, and became a tradition of the university. This tradition also survived the intense suppression of the prewar days, as evidenced by the fact that Ritsumeikan University accepted seventeen professors who were forced by the government to leave Kyoto Imperial University (present-day Kyoto University) for their pacifist activities.

After World War II, Ritsumeikan adopted the educational philosophy of peace and democracy, faithful to the spirit of the Japanese Constitution and the Education Fundamental Law. In 1948, Ritsumeikan became one of the first Japanese universities to be reorganized under the new education system. Ritsumeikan carried out extensive reforms to ensure democratic administration of the university to better serve society as an educational institution open to the public.

In the 1990s, in response to the changes leading to a globalized information society, each faculty went through curriculum revisions to accommodate the changing global complexities and innovations affecting higher education. One significant part of these changes was the introduction of the international education programs such as the Five-Week Intercultural Programs; the One-Year Program; Ritsumeikan-UBC (the University of

The Origins of the Name “Ritsumeikan”

The word ritsumei comes from a passage in the Jinxin chapter of the Discourses of Mencius. This passage states that:

“Some die young, as some live long lives. This is decided by fate. Therefore, one’s duty consists of cultivating one’s mind during this mortal span and thereby establishing one’s destiny.”

Academy Overview

The Founding Spirit and Educational Ideals of the Ritsumeikan Academy

The Ritsumeikan Academy was founded in 1900 as the Kyoto Hosei School (Kyoto School of Law and Politics), an evening law school open to working people. The school was founded by Kojuro Nakagawa, former secretary to Prince Kinmochi Saionji, liberal statesman of late 19th and early 20th Century Japan. With Saionji's blessing, the name was changed to Ritsumeikan Private University in 1913. The university established itself upon the spirit of "freedom and innovation" and set "peace and democracy" as its core educational philosophy.

The Ritsumeikan Academy has now become an integrated academy with a rich culture of individuality and international awareness accommodating a total of approximately 50,000 students. The current Ritsumeikan Academy has campuses in Hokkaido, Shiga, Kyoto, Osaka, and Oita and encompasses two universities, four high schools, four junior high schools, and one primary school. Since Ritsumeikan's establishment, approximately 450,000 students have graduated from Ritsumeikan University and 25,000 from Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University (APU).

The Ritsumeikan Academy is committed to shaping the vision of a future society and making a genuine contribution to the world. Under the banner of RITSUMEIKAN FOR SOCIAL IMPACT, we dedicate ourselves to creating new value and addressing the pressing challenges that face our planet.
